Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 21 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Wet and windy today.

Today:
Windy and mostly cloudy with spells of rain, heavy at times. Feeling on the cold side in the wind and rain, especially in the northeast. Windiest conditions today over southern UK where blustery and gusty with coastal gales.

Tonight:
Further spells of rain this evening, heavy at times, but overnight rain will gradually fade and become mostly confined to eastern UK. Winds will also begin to ease.

Saturday:
Rather cloudy at first but brightening up from the west with scattered showers from late morning. Windy in the far east at first, but less windy, and warmer, than today.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Mostly dry start Sunday, with spell of locally heavy rain spreading eastwards later. Rain for parts of Scotland Monday, sunshine and heavy showers elsewhere. Sunny spells and isolated showers Tuesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.